

ABSTRACT

The invention relates to an antifriction bearing with integrated lubrication, wherein the surfaces of the parts moved relative to each other are in contact. At least a portion of at least one of the parts has a coating (52, 53) with a lubricant.